

The 15 Minute Table Runner... No Really!

Supplies

- 1/2 yard Fabric
- 1/3 yard Fabric

Directions

1. Open up the two pieces of fabric and put them right side together. Sew the two side to each other, using  $\frac{1}{4}$ " seam allowance, creating a tube. Turn the tube right side out. Press so as equal amounts of fabric are on each side of the center fabric.
2. At one end of the tube, fold the tube back to back - stitch across the end. Fold it to the other side, creating a point. Repeat on other side.
3. To hold down the tow end pieces there are several options. The easist way is to add a button to each side of the table runner at the center seam. Rick rack or a pretty ribbon can also be used or, add tassels to the pointed ends.

Additional Ideas: Create the tube as explained in step 1, cut it in half creating two equal parts. Finish as if each is a full runner. This creates two darling placemats!

The 15 Minute Table Runner... No Really!

Supplies

- 1/2 yard Fabric
- 1/3 yard Fabric

Directions

1. Open up the two pieces of fabric and put them right side together. Sew the two side to each other, using  $\frac{1}{4}$ " seam allowance, creating a tube. Turn the tube right side out. Press so as equal amounts of fabric are on each side of the center fabric.
2. At one end of the tube, fold the tube back to back - stitch across the end. Fold it to the other side, creating a point. Repeat on other side.
3. To hold down the tow end pieces there are several options. The easist way is to add a button to each side of the table runner at the center seam. Rick rack or a pretty ribbon can also be used or, add tassels to the pointed ends.

Additional Ideas: Create the tube as explained in step 1, cut it in half creating two equal parts. Finish as if each is a full runner. This creates two darling placemats!